Published in association with The Online Learning Consortium.

"This book is a must-read for present and aspiring educational leaders who wish to understand the intersection of established leadership principles and e-learning. The authors demonstrate clearly how institutional leaders must embrace the impact of instructional technology on organizational culture. They do this by concentrating on excellence in an innovative climate showing that sustainability is the key to success. This volume is a tour de force in transformation and technology—the first that redefines the leadership construct in the modern era."

- Charles (Chuck) Dziuban, Director of the Research Initiative for Teaching Effectiveness, Professor Emeritus, and inaugural Pegasus Professor at the University of Central Florida; and Sloan-C Fellow

Written by pioneers in the field of online learning, this book offers insights and guidance to the rising generation of leaders in the field of higher education. It explains how to integrate online learning into an institution during a period of rapid social and institutional change. This important volume:

- Shares success stories, interviews, cases and insights from a broad range of leadership styles
- Reviews how technology is transforming higher education worldwide
- Provides an overview of how distance education is organized in a range of institutional settings
- Breaks down current leadership challenges in both unit operations and institutional policy

All of the contributors have held leadership roles in national and international distance education organizations. Five of the contributors have been recognized as Sloan Consortium Fellows and they have all collaborated with the Institute for Emerging Leaders in Online Learning. These contributors have helped pave the way and now share their insights, advice, and broad vision with the future leaders of the field.
